DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 9, 10, and 14-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
3. Claims 9 and 14 recites the limitation "the cover's walls". There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1-9 and 11-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Calvert et al. 5522383.
6. Calvert et al. teaches an inhaling device for dispersing through the respiratory tract only one dose of powdered medicaments contained in a capsule at a time, the device comprising: a body comprising a first chamber, a second chamber, and a lower chamber including an aperture within a compartment including a circular groove, the compartment located inside a cover or inside one or more chambers and proximate the means for holding; means for splitting the capsule comprised of a cutting element comprised of a blade or pointed element, wherein the cutting element that cuts the capsule moves up and down by means of a spring; means for releasing the powdered medicaments; means for holding pieces of the case of the capsule comprising a reservoir having a series of slots; means for securing the capsule with the device comprising a cover the cover having two outer protrusions of the cover's walls that stop under a pair of inner protrusions; means for delivering to the user the powdered medicaments that includes a mouthpiece; wherein the capsule is located in the hollow portion of the compartment in a substantially vertical position when the cover is horizontal thereby allowing the cutting element to perforate the capsule when the cover is pressed laterally, in a horizontal and perpendicular direction towards the capsule (see figures), and wherein the operation of the incision of the capsule can be performed by rotating the cover (col. 10, lines 38-45).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. Claim 11 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Calvert et al.

9. As to claim 11, Calvert et al. teaches the inhaling device of claim 8. It should be noted that Calvert et al. fails to teach wherein the pointed element passes through the spring. However, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to make the pointed element pass through the spring because the arrangement of the pointed element is a mere design choice and the any arrangement would perform equally well. Furthermore, the Applicant has not disclosed that the specific type of arrangement solves any stated problems or is for any particular purpose and it appears that the invention would perform equally well with the arrangement taught by Calvert et al.

Double Patenting

10. A rejection based on double patenting of the "same invention" type finds its support in the language of 35 U.S.C. 101 which states that "whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process ... may obtain a patent therefor ..." (Emphasis added). Thus, the term "same invention," in this context, means an invention drawn to identical subject matter. See Miller v. Eagle Mfg. Co., 151 U.S. 186 (1894); In re Ockert, 245 F.2d 467, 114 USPQ 330 (CCPA 1957); and In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970).

A statutory type (35 U.S.C. 101) double patenting rejection can be overcome by canceling or amending the conflicting claims so they are no longer coextensive in scope. The filing of a terminal disclaimer cannot overcome a double patenting rejection based upon 35 U.S.C. 101.

11. Claims 14-20 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 as claiming the same invention as that of claims 22-28 of prior U.S. Patent No. 6679255. This is a double patenting rejection.

12. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

13. Claims 1-13 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-13 of U.S. Patent No. 6679255. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the application claim is merely broader than the patent claim. In re Goodmand, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d (Fed. Cir. 1993). The structural limitations set forth in Claims 1-13 of the instant application are also claimed in the patent, e.g., means for holding a capsule, means for splitting the capsule; means for releasing powdered medicaments contained in the capsule; means for holding the pieces of a case of the capsule; and means for delivering a powdered medicament of the capsule. The difference between claim 1 of the instant application and claim 1 of the patent is "externally accessible means for holding". Since the application claim is broader, it would be readable on the "externally accessible means for holding".
